The State of the City

The Honorable Jim Wood was our guest speaker this morning. Mayor Wood touched on a number of issues that showed us that our little town of Oceanside is no longer what it used to be. The redevelopment of downtown, to include the hotels and condos that are in the process of being built, are changing the face of the city. A new 450 parking garage just opened that will make parking less of a challenge to those wanting to visit downtown.

The Sprinter rail system is progressing nicely, which will make Oceanside much more accessible to those wishing to visit Oceanside from the inland cities. One of the last open parcels for development, the property by the drive-in theater is being considered for an upper end shopping center.

There are numerous advancements and changes going around all over town that are too numerous to mention. All of this shows that Oceanside is well on its way to becoming a city we can all be proud of.
